STUDENTS AND EARLY CAREER RESEARCHERS

LOTS ON OFFER AT SAFETY 2022 FOR STUDENTS AND EARLY CAREER RESEARCHERS

The Safety 2022 conference , to be held in Adelaide in November 2022, has plenty of opportunities for students and early career researchers!

Firstly, consider registering as an abstract reviewer CLICK HERE It's great to see what's emerging in the field, something for you to add to your CV and can help with your own work to see how other researchers and practitioners describe their work!

For students/ECRs consider submitting your abstracts CLICK HERE – we'll have an award for the best student/ECR abstract and student/ECR dedicated presentation sessions too! Abstract submission closes 20th March!

There'll be a range of workshops that will be of interest for students/ECRs including a mental health workshop and workshops around the Global Burden of Disease study data and collaborator network. In addition, we are planning a Meet the Editors session. This will feature several editors of leading injury and safety journals who will provide great advice on how to give your paper the best chance of being accepted, such as what editors are looking for, how important is a cover letter and how to respond to reviewers' comments. We'll be calling for questions from students/ECRs, so if you have a burning question for an editor of a journal or you'd like to suggest an editor, please get in touch!

Full time students and concession card holders can also access a heavily discounted early bird registration of $695 CLICK HERE We hope to see you in Adelaide (or online) in November 2022.

8TH INTERNATIONAL SAFETY MEDIA AWARDS

Call for International Safety Media Awards (ISMA) - 10 Jan to 27 Mar 2022

The International Safety Media Awards have been a part of the World Health Organization's SAFETY Conferences since 2006 in Durban, South Africa. The Awards provide a platform to recognize powerful and effective safety promotion and injury prevention media initiatives. The ISMAs also provide an opportunity to strengthen worldwide multi-sectorial partnerships and share state-of-the-art learnings. At the last conference over 600 pieces of media were received from every continent except Antarctica.

Any questions please email Marcia Howell marcia.howell@safealaskans.org or Barbara Minuzzo Barbara.Minuzzo11@gmail.com
